Actions to stop doing

Recklessly making code changes without proper code review. Sometimes features have been broken or bugs introduced that have slipped through the cracks because proper code review has not been done.

Actions to start doing

More consistent Scrum meetings. More care is needed in order to pre-schedule Scrum meetings so that all the group members can attend

Actions to keep doing

Division of work has been good, implementing the backend functionality and then allowing the frontend developers to focus on improving the aesthetics of the project seems to be a solid developmental process.
